Transcription of YouTube Video: Rep. Stewart asks SEC's
Clayton about Cryptocurrencies

Runtime: 01:24

1 CHAIRMAN CLAYTON: Uh-huh.

2 REPRESENTATIVE STEWART: Do you think
3 that the cryptocurrencies, they provide 4 economic utility? Let me ask that. And -- 5 and elaborate on that, if you would.
6 Elaborate on some of the concerns you have,
7 and then tell us where's the proper
8 regulator? And -- and what is the proper 9 regulating scheme that we should have in 10 these currencies? Because you know, there's 11 many of them now, and -- and I think,
12 sometimes people just don't have the 13 information they need to make good
14 decisions.

15 CHAIRMAN CLAYTON: Well, I agree with 16 your last comment, and it's a complicated
17 area, because as -- as you said, there are 18 different types of crypto assets. Let me try 19 and divide them into -- into two areas. I
20 will -- and I will try to do this fast. A 21 pure medium of exchange, the one that's most 22 often cited is -- is bitcoin, as a
23 replacement for currency. That is -- that 24 has been determined by most people not to be 25 a security. Then there are tokens, which are

1 used to finance projects. I've been on the 2 record saying there are very few -- there
3 are very few -- there's none that I've seen,
4 tokens that aren't securities. To the extent
5 something is a security, we should regulate 6 it as a security. And our securities
7 regulations are disclosure based, and people
8 should follow those, and provide the -- the 9 information that we require.
